Brief History of the Department:

Department of Political Science established in the year 2017 when the college established. In the initial two years Political science was taught to BA-HEP as it was the only group during the academic years 2017-2018 and 2018-2019 with one faculty later the subject has extended to the newly added EPP group from the academic year 2019-2020.

Importance of Political science

Political science is a branch of social science that focuses on the theory and practice of politics and government. It encompasses a broad range of topics, including political institutions, political behavior, public policy, international relations, and political philosophy. The study of political science is essential for understanding the complexities of political systems and the challenges of democratic governance and public policy. The study of political science also provides insights into the evaluation of public policy, including the assessment of policy outcomes and the identification of policy alternatives and helps citizens to understand the origins and consequences of different political ideologies and provides insights into the challenges and opportunities of political change. It is also essential for understanding the role of civil society and media in shaping democratic governance.

“Politics is the Master science”

CRITERION II

TEACHING, LEARNING & EVALUATION

Each faculty member in the department prepares a teaching plan of the course. As per the Almanac of the University, there are 15 weeks or 90 working days in each semester. Teaching plans and semester plans will be in such a way that entire course shall be covered within available time. Faculty members are recording in the teaching diaries whatever they taught and do some curricular activities. We are maintaining Digital Teaching Diary from 2020-21 onwards. Digital Teaching Diary is the part of CAIMS (College Administration Information Management System) which is provided by Commissionerate of collegiate education, Telangana. Department used to review coverage of syllabus from time to time and gives instruction accordingly. Faculty members are encouraged to take up student centric activities viz, Quiz, Debating, Elocution, Assignments, Student Seminars, Group Discussions, Student Study projects and brainstorming sessions. Every faculty member in the department is trained in ICT tools. ICT enabled teaching is being done in blended modes through different platforms as shown below.

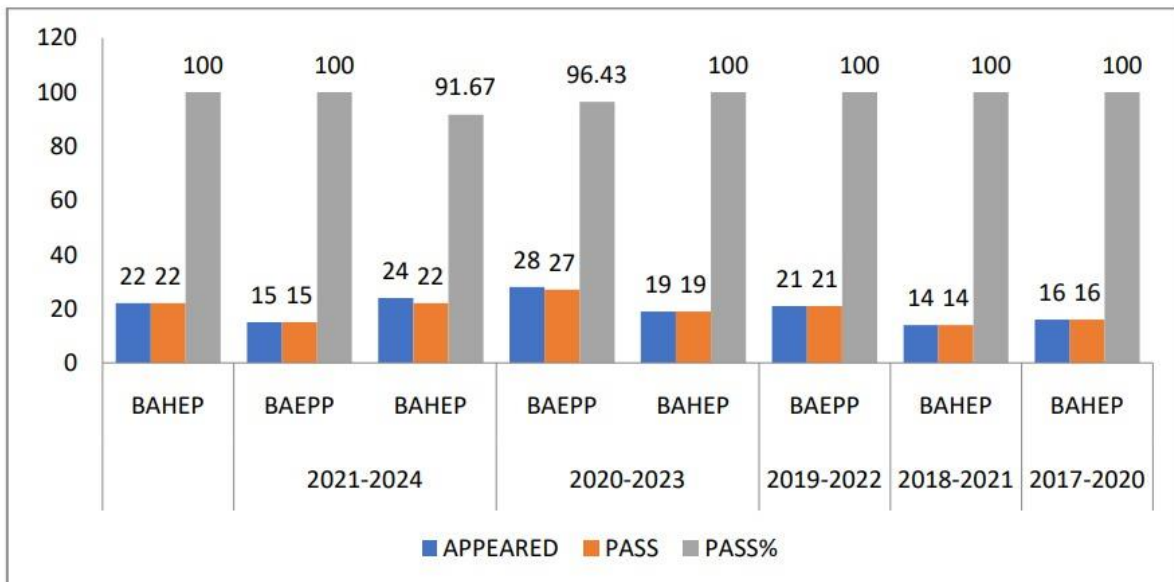

Evaluation of students is done through two internal exams and one semester end exam that will be conducted by the university. 20% of weightage is given to Internal Assessment examination and 80% of weightage is given to semester end exam. A student has to score 40% of total marks including internal and external to pass in a course. Average of two internal assessments will be considered for internal marks. Grades are given according the following table from academic year 2019-20 onwards.

Range of % Marks	Grade	Grade point

SWOC Analysis

Strengths:

- Faculty members are well qualified and experienced.
- Learning material for students.
- Extensive use of teaching aids.
- Subject related programs.

Weaknesses:

- Most of the students are economically and socially poor

Opportunities:

- Good ambiance regarding rising awareness of administrative sciences among people.
- Good governance, e-governance, ethical governance, citizen-centric administration, corporate governance etc. are the watchwords of 21st century.

Challenges:

- Stopping students from daily journey
- Promoting to higher education because of getting marriages during or immediately after Degree.

FUTURE ACTION PLAN

- To introduce certificate courses
- To introduce PG in Political Science
- To continue blended mode teaching further.
- To give long term coaching for PG entrance exams.
- To conduct more industrial field trips for experiential learning.
